 SINGAPORE MARITIME WEEK  MARITIME AND PORT AUTHORITY OF SINGAPORE

ONE PLATFORM, MANY PERSPECTIVES.

The 14th edition of the Singapore Maritime Week returns in April 2019 and looks set to bring over 40,000 industry professionals together over 36 industry and community events held around the island.

The ongoing US-China trade war appears to be prolonged. What is the expected impact on global trade and the maritime sector? With the deadline for compliance of the 2020 Sulphur Cap nearing, how are shipowners evaluating options when it comes to finding cost-effective solutions for the long-term?

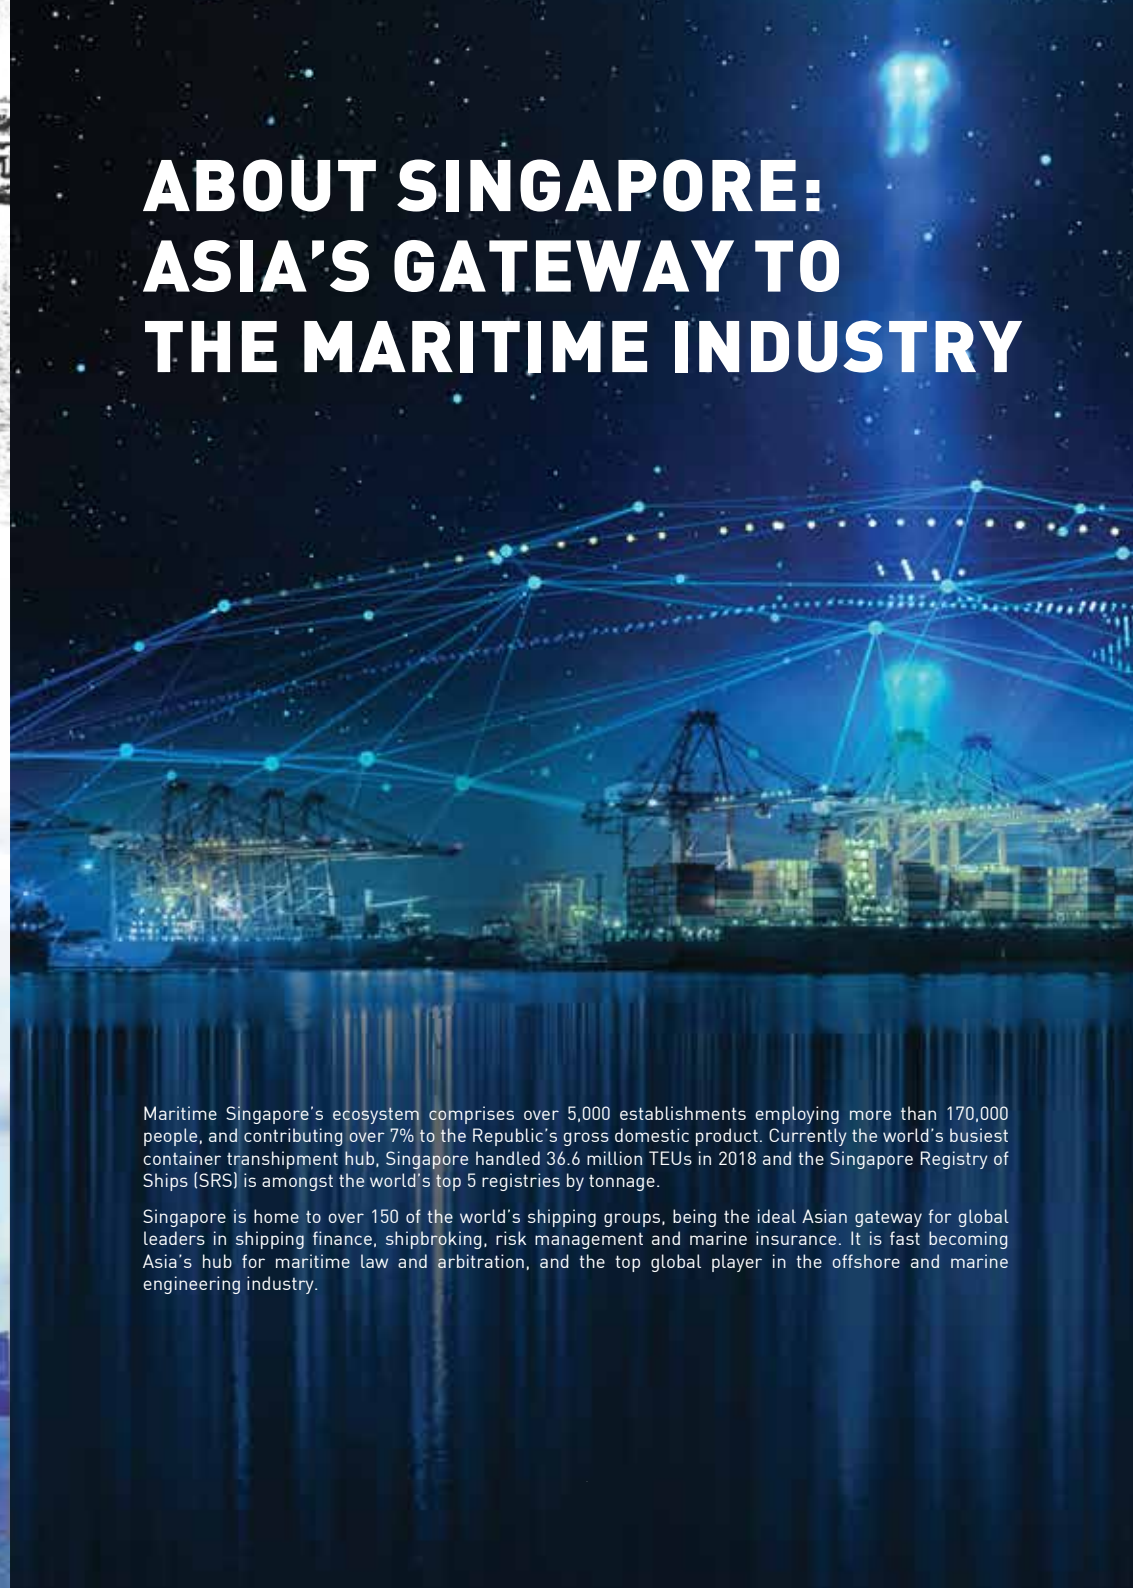

On the technology front, digitalisation and connectivity continue to drive smart ports and smart shipping and these emerging needs helm opportunities. The right mix of talent however, remains a key issue for many employers in the sector. In the face of such challenges, how can the sector prepare ahead?

Gathering international participants, including ministerial-level personnel and key port administrators, Singapore Maritime Week will set the tone for the year with a focus on connectivity, innovation and talent. Anchoring at SMW 2019 are Sea Asia and the International Maritime Awards where there will be high-level discussions and networking opportunities amongst key industry executives. Curated events that address fresh perspectives on e-navigation, start-ups, finance and sustainability will also be featured at SMW 2019.

To celebrate Singapore's Bicentennial, a series of outreach events, including the SMW Exhibition will incorporate stories of Singapore's evolution from trading post to international maritime centre.

Visit www.smw.sg for the latest updates today.

ABOUT SINGAPORE: ASIA'S GATEWAY TO THE MARITIME INDUSTRY

Maritime Singapore's ecosystem comprises over 5,000 establishments employing more than 170,000 people, and contributing over 7% to the Republic's gross domestic product. Currently the world's busiest container transshipment hub, Singapore handled 36.6 million TEUs in 2018 and the Singapore Registry of Ships (SRS) is amongst the world's top 5 registries by tonnage.

Singapore is home to over 150 of the world's shipping groups, being the ideal Asian gateway for global leaders in shipping finance, shipbroking, risk management and marine insurance. It is fast becoming Asia's hub for maritime law and arbitration, and the top global player in the offshore and marine engineering industry.

Sea Asia: Parliamentary Debate

10 April

Parliamentary Debate: "This house believes that too much is expected of the shipping industry on environmental matters".

For an industry with the size, complexity and importance of global shipping, new regulations from ballast water management to fuel regulations to decarbonisation present the industry with a significant cost and challenge. Is the regulatory agenda faced by the shipping industry appropriate? Is too much expected of the industry, not least given the scale of the change and timeline involved? Who will pay for these changes? The Sea Asia Parliamentary Debate for 2019 will bring together speakers on both sides of this important subject for a full and frank conversation on the issue, with opportunities for the audience to vote on the motion.

Time : 10am – 11.30am
Venue : Marina Bay Sands
Organiser : Seatrade and Singapore Maritime Foundation

3rd Asian Marine Casualty Forum

11 – 12 April

By popular demand, the 3rd Asian Marine Marine Casualty Forum returns to address critical issues in marine casualties. Statistically, the Far East has more marine casualties than other regions. The forum is unique in that it is a major event arranged by the industry for the industry and is non-profit making with wide sponsorship from across the industry. Supporters include SMF, SSA, BIMCO, Baltic Exchange, SCMA, ITOPF and others.

Time : 9am – 5pm
Venue : Marina Bay Sands
Organiser : London Offshore Consultants (LOC) Group
Contact : Nicolas White
